VANDELAY TECHNOLOGIES AWARDED DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION CONTRACT

Gaithersburg, Maryland, October 1, 2003 - Vandelay Technologies (VT), a leading provider of information technology services, today announced it was awarded a contract for application development services for the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). This contract was awarded using VT's GSA schedule.

VT is the technical lead on a system conversion project for the DEA. The DEA is porting one of their internal proprietary applications that is used to process internal criminal case files authored by their field agents. VT has been contracted to rewrite this application to make it web enabled and to use an Oracle database.

"We're pleased to have been awarded this development contract with the DEA. With our experience with software development and our existing knowledge of DEA processes we should be successful in our efforts." said Lenny Ilkovich, Project Manager for Vandelay Technologies.

Vandelay Technologies provides information technology services and products to government and commercial clients.
