

Vandelay Technologies Awarded GSA Schedule Extension

Glenwood, MD, June 01, 2008 (MARKET WIRE) --

Vandelay Technologies has recently received an extension of its GSA schedule for IT services.

The extension was for numerous labor categories ranging from project management, system and database administration, software development and web development.

"We are extremely pleased to have received this GSA extension," said Lenny Ilkovich, President of Vandelay Technologies. "Since we received our first GSA schedule in 2003 we have been awarded several GSA contracts. This GSA contract extension marks a significant milestone in the advancement of our Federal practice."

GSA Schedules offer customers premium supplies and services at discounted pricing.

"By obtaining our GSA schedule extension, Vandelay Technologies is excited about having the ability to offer our high level service offerings to all levels of government customers. Whether it is system administration, database design, software development or any of the other services Vandelay Technology offers, we look forward to helping our government customers meet their IT needs," said Steven Stein, CEO of Vandelay Technologies.

Vandelay Technologies intends to continue to expand service offerings on the GSA Schedule to cover various services and technologies in the dynamic industry.
